Look at the pieces of a puzzle
Presented as separate parts.
Look closely at each piece
No two are alike.
The designs of each one is different
Expressing its own part within the puzzle,
And when they are fitted together
The lines disappear and a picture results.

We are the pieces of this puzzle
Presented as individuals.
Look closely at each person
No two are alike.
The expression on each face is different
Reflecting individuality within the whole,
And when they are fitted together
The separations disappear and a portrait of us results.

The junior's farewell Prom for the seniors is traditionally a romantic evening. On this night everyone feels special; dress is formal and no one is a wallflower. Each couple has it's own style: tala, pastel, and basic black tuxedos can be seen as well as many different ways to dance.

A week of fashions started off this year's Homecoming week with a fashion show on Friday night. The show featured a variety of styles, from classic to contemporary. The models showcased a range of clothing, including dresses, blouses, and pantsuits. The show was a success, with many students praising the variety of styles.

Students dressed in Mix-n-match outfits for the homecoming games to follow on Saturday. The games were a highlight of the week, with many students cheering for their favorite teams. The homecoming spirit was high, and the games were a great success.

The homecoming student government also organized a variety of activities, including a dance and a parade. The dance was a great success, with many students enjoying the music and dancing. The parade was also a highlight, with many students participating and cheering for their school.

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine if there were differences in the prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders between two groups of nurses working in different departments of a hospital. The sample included 100 nurses from the intensive care unit and 100 nurses from the medical-surgical department. Data were collected by means of a questionnaire containing information about sociodemographic characteristics, work conditions, and musculoskeletal symptoms. The results showed that the prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders was higher among nurses from the intensive care unit than among nurses from the medical-surgical department. The prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders was also higher among nurses who had worked longer in their current position, who performed more physical tasks, and who reported more musculoskeletal symptoms.

Student Council suggests a change of pace

Where else could you see your best friend legally? Only at the annual Student Council sponsored Red Night. Over twenty clubs pooled their ideas to supply many unique booths for parties and it was possible to look at almost everything and check it off your "Red" list by the night.

Food, beer, music, games and other activities were provided and enjoyed themselves. Basketball and volleyball were featured for some pass time.

After a week of exams, students celebrated the end of the semester with an evening of dancing. Debbie Ashe and Laurie TenPas released their tensions to the music of Riff Raff.

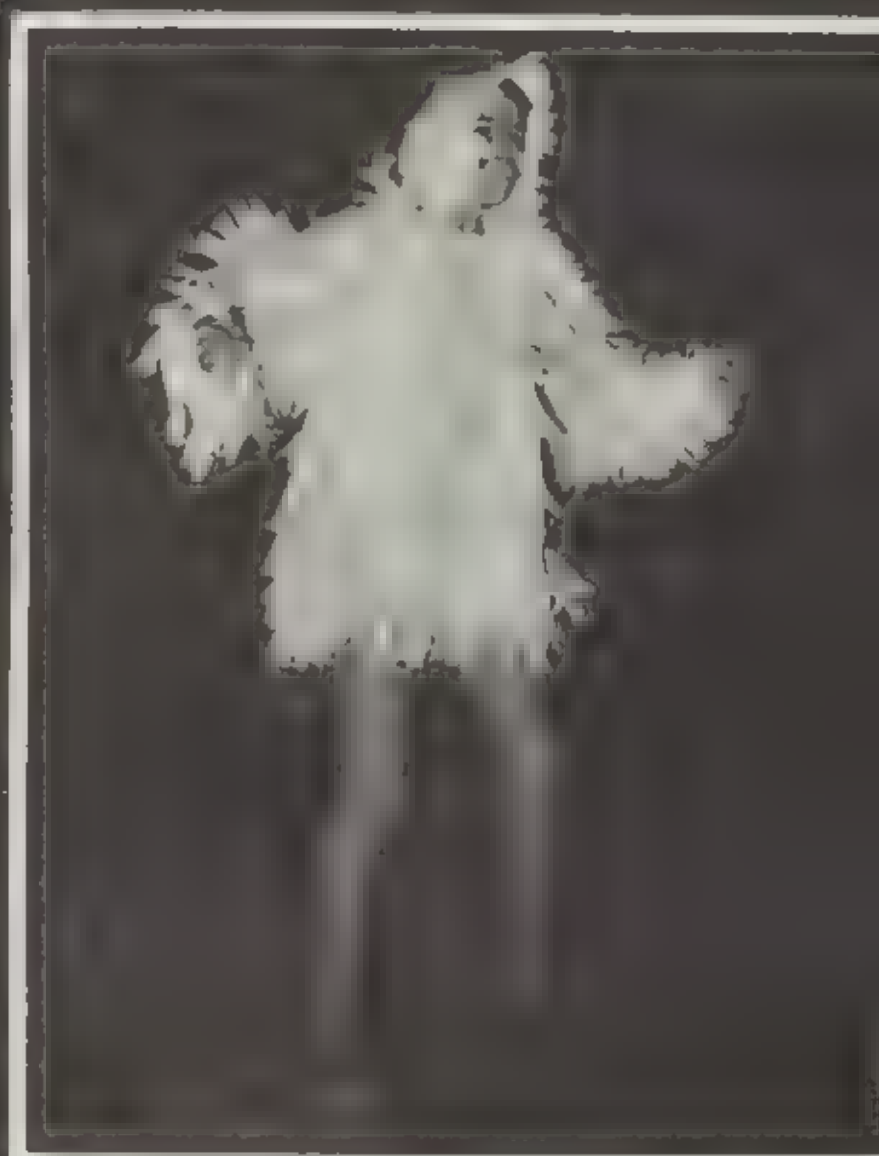

Class meetings added to the assembly schedule

With the addition of class meetings to the assembly schedule, the school has a more varied program. The students are now able to attend a class meeting which is held in the gymnasium. This is a new feature of the school's assembly program.

One of this year's senior class meeting gave Jenny Eifert an opportunity to speak to her fellow classmates about sponsoring a blood drive within the school. To be able to give blood, a student had to be at least seventeen years old, weigh 110 pounds, and be in good health. A representative from the North Suburban Blood Center showed the class a film and explained to them exactly how the drive would work. Sixty-five pints of blood were donated by students and teachers on the December 10 drive

Karen Ekstrand, Bob Smart and Jeannine Holdiman were among the twenty state finalists selected for the Earthwatch Scholarship. This program, available to those ages 16-21, gave five hundred students an opportunity to do fieldwork in various scientific areas, such as anthropology, geology, and archaeology. About thirty percent of the participating students are assigned to overseas projects for the 2-3 week summer term

Sophomore Genelle Travers represented WEHS at the Hugh O'Brien convention in Chicago. She was awarded a pin, a certificate, and an original Hugh O'Brien T-Shirt

The Domestic Exchange Club planned an exchange with Colorado Springs, Colorado. As a fundraiser they sponsored a volleyball exhibition. The guests of honor were the Chicago Rebels, a pro women's team on which East faculty member, Ms. Starck, plays. Opponents included women and men park district teams and East male faculty. Even though the fundraiser was a success, the Domestic Exchange Club cancelled their plans and didn't go

The National Honor Society held a twenty-four hour ping pong, badminton, and rocking chair marathon. Sponsors of NHS members pledged over seven hundred dollars. The proceeds were used to donate equipment to Victory Memorial and Saint Therese Hospitals

Senior Joy Mazlo was named Cadet Lieutenant Colonel at the May Awards Night. She was the first girl at East to receive that honor, and also the first girl to become Battalion Commander. In the past, girls were elected by fellow students to the post of Honorary Lieutenant Colonel at the Military Ball. Joy's title however, was earned by her ROTC leadership and scholastic ability

Jae Li Pak entered an experiment he had designed to determine the speed of electricity in the National Westinghouse Science Contest. Jae put in time after school and on weekends in Mr. Henrickson's Physics room working on the project. The final day of the contest Mr. Odorizzi let him in the school about 7:00 a.m. and he didn't leave until 11:00 that night. All of Jae's hard work was rewarded, however when he placed among the top three hundred national finalists

Mickey Woolf and Mike Clark attended the Washington Congressional Seminar the week following Spring Break. This opportunity was brought to their attention by social studies department head, Mr. Hemever. Mickey and Mike asked community organizations to donate funds for plane tickets and lodging at Mary Mount College. The political seminars focused on how the United States government, especially the Congress, works

Maury Fertig received first place in the B'nai B'rith Youth Organization film contest for his production of "A Day at School." The movie starred students and faculty members of East and was filmed on location. After his finish, Maury went on to enter his film in the NBC "Saturday Night Live" film contest

On a cold day this winter, a fire alarm during the 5-5 lunch period caused much confusion. Students were given conflicting instructions first to stay seated, next to stand outside, and finally to come inside, but remain on the first floor. The possibility of a fire had to be investigated before students were allowed back to their classes. Fireman discovered, however, that water dripping into the attic heat sensor had caused a short circuit. The entire incident amounted to twenty minutes of freezing outdoors and at least a half an hour of waiting in uncertainty

Dedicated To Music

Tri-M is an organization fostering music in the school and community. The Tri-M Chapter at Northridge High School has been a success story since its founding. Since music is a major facet of the school's curriculum, it is an interesting item to discuss.

Activities included a public concert in the spring for students who completed music courses in district competitions. The school also hosted the Spring Tri-M Concert, which is a popular event in the school. The Tri-M Chapter House.

You Gotta have Art

The purpose of the art club was to provide a place for students who are interested in art. It is a place where students can learn from each other and from the art teacher. Commented Janna Radavonova, a member.

The club's main projects this year were making hand-made jewelry at Red Night and painting a large Mythological scene on the wall of Mr. Minerva's art room.

Minerva said he started the club "for those who enjoy art and want to do more in art than just come to class every day."

Voice of East

The WORLD staff is proud to have had a year of people who were on the paper last year. Editor Andy Morrison tried to broaden the paper's base, but occasionally had a difficult time keeping the paper connected to a school-related issue.

Special features this year included an "Ask the Man in the Hall" feature and a series on the history of the school. Andy was pleased with the members of his staff, saying, "Some people on the staff went out of their way to do their jobs, and I think that the paper is better because of it."

With the deadline drawing near, Chris Wolk hurried to finish an article while Andy Morrison contributed helpful suggestions.

With the hope of qualifying for upcoming events, East Green works diligently to perfect every breathing pattern.

District qualifications are a setback for East

The East Green swimming team has been hit hard by the district qualifications. The team, which had been leading the district in several events, has now fallen to a low position in many of the key races. This setback is a significant blow to the team's morale and their chances of winning the district championship. The coach, however, remains optimistic and believes that the team can bounce back from this setback and perform well in the upcoming season.

in coaching. "Ms. Flores was fantastic."

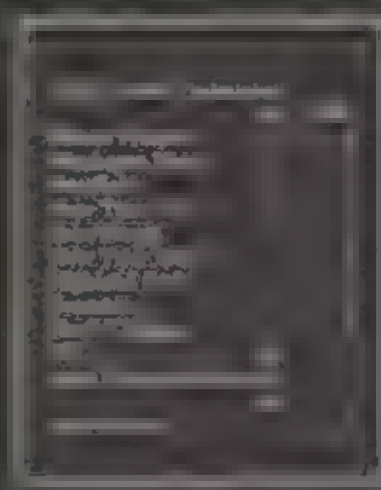

The team's season was full of surprises, such as winning the state championship. "It showed us that we were better than we thought."

In competition, a badminton player must make careful use of strategy. Kim McDonald remains alert to any surprise move her opponent may make.

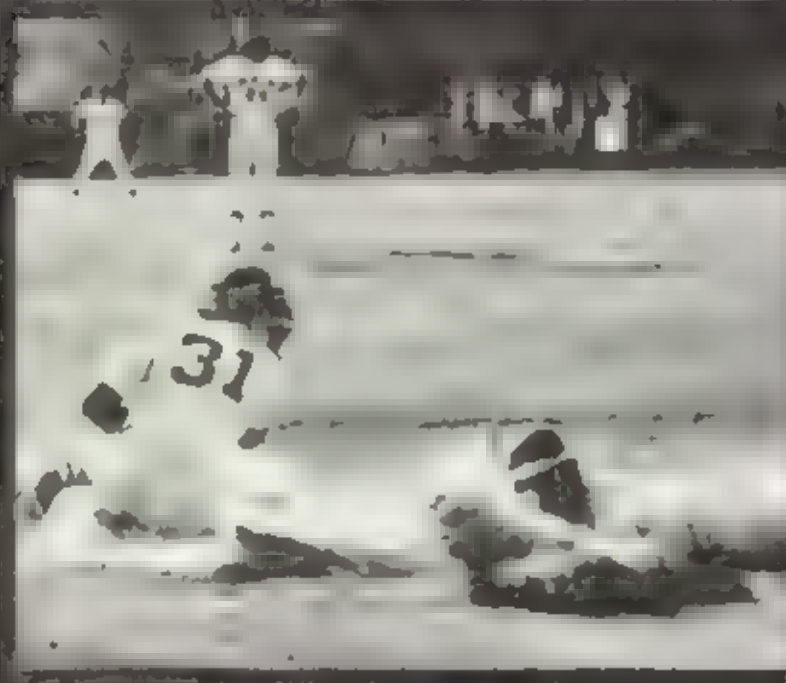

Representing the state are the top players from Waukegan. Coaches at the Waukegan meet chose to use all three courts simultaneously.

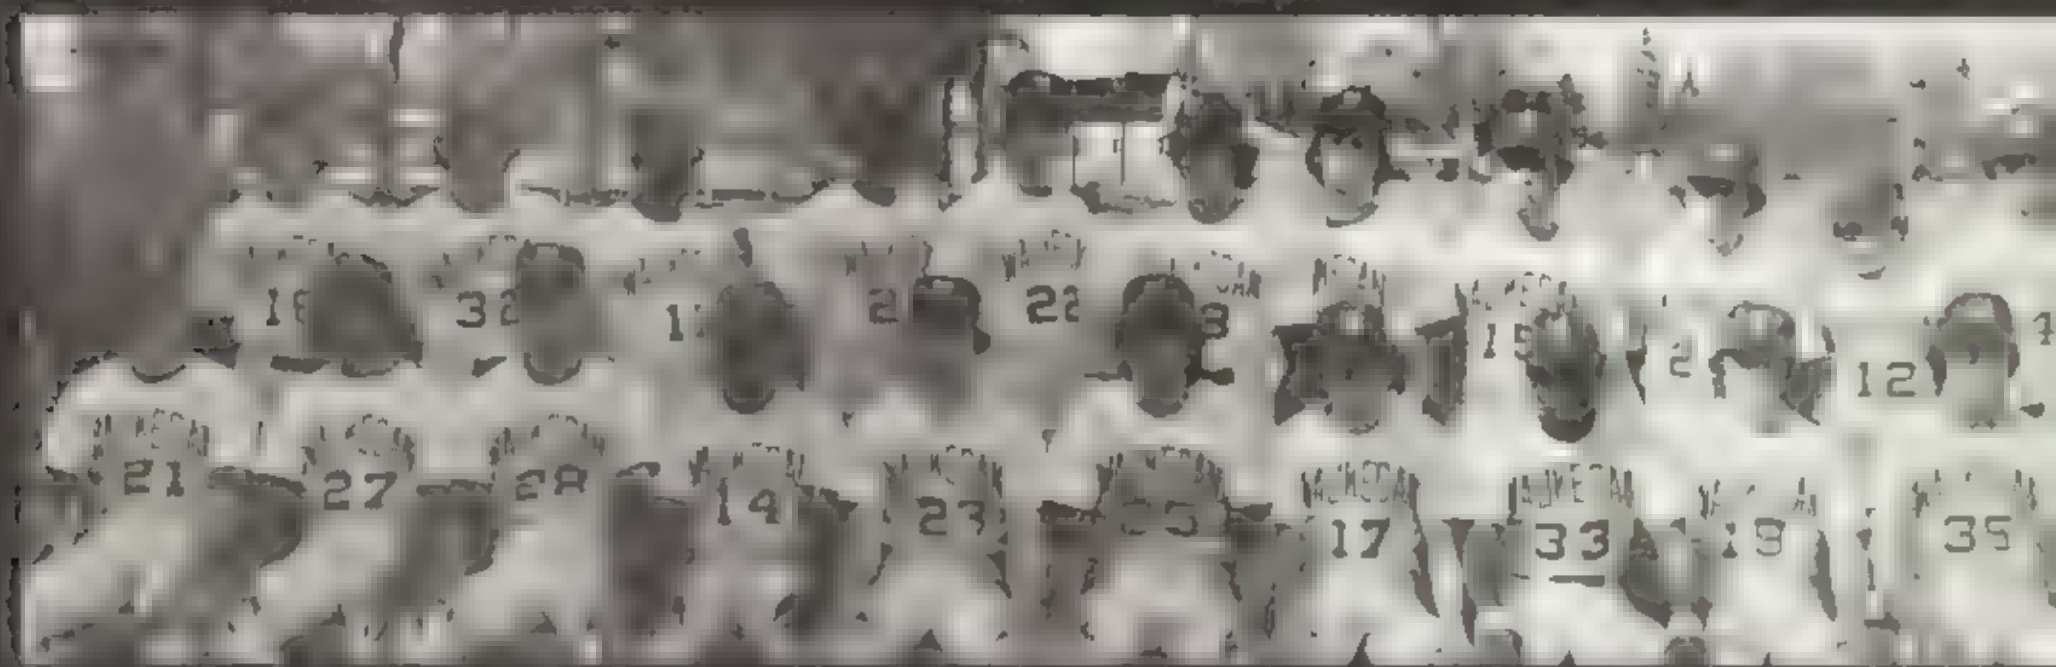

The 74 teams featured a new aspect to Bulldog Baseball. Diane Schultz traveled with the team as an official bat girl.

Students stay in shape during their off season

Mr. Nosenko, who is in charge of the weight room, said that the students who are in the weight room during their off season are the ones who are in the best shape for their athletic season. Mr. Nosenko instructed the students to use the weights to build up their muscles and to keep them in good shape for their athletic season.

The controversial subject of capital punishment came to the public's attention in 1976. On July 19, Gary Gilmore robbed and murdered a gas station attendant. Gilmore was arrested and sentenced to death. The execution was postponed twice but Gilmore was determined to die. He attempted suicide. In 1978 he petitioned the court for the execution to go ahead. Lawyers argued that his desire to die by firing squad tantamount to committing suicide. Finally Gary Gilmore was executed by a firing squad on January 17 at the age of thirty-six.

After 28 years of controlling the People's Republic of China, Chairman Mao Tse-tung died September 9, 1976. Mao's political career began after his peasant centered revolution enabled Communists to seize power. Later he composed doctrines that have affected foreign policies. Through the Cultural Revolution of the 1960's, Mao raised national pride, allowing China to be one of the great powers. Following a bitter power struggle, Technocrat Hua Kuo-feng became Chairman Mao's successor.

By enrolling in Thaddeus Stevens Elementary, Amy Carter became the first President's child to attend a Washington, D.C., school since Teddy Roosevelt's son Quentin. Her pet dog, a mixed breed named Oreo, was a gift from her new fourth grade teacher.

In 1978 Baruch Blumberg was awarded the Noble Prize in medicine for his research concerning the origin of the hepatitis virus. Six other Americans also won Nobels including two Chicagoans: novelist Saul Bellow and economist Milton Friedman.

A black and white photograph of a multi-story building under construction. The structure is heavily encased in a complex network of scaffolding and wooden formwork. Several rectangular window openings are visible across the facade. The building appears to be situated in an urban environment, with other structures visible in the background. The foreground shows a construction site with some debris and a low wall.

The 1977 Annual W was printed by Walsworth Publishing Company in Marceline, Missouri. The copy is set in Melior. Body copy is 10/12 pt. Captions are 8/9 pt. and the underclass ID's are set in 6 pt. Headlines are 18 pt. Clarendon Bold Italic. Artwork for Table of Contents page and division pages was drawn by Diane Lindroth. Poem on page 2 was anonymously written. Senior portraits, underclass portraits, and most of the group pictures were taken by Root Photographers. Wide World Photos and the NEWS SUN provided most of the photographs on pages 166-175

The backroom is empty, the tables are cleared, the darkroom is deserted. The last shipment has gone to press. We disagreed over the theme, pictures and cover. The tears, lost negatives and missed deadlines are all behind us now. Our work is done.

The rest is up to you. If you think our long work meetings and tiring sessions were in vain; we've failed.

We hope after reading your Annual you as an individual will feel a part of the whole.

Dear
 My dear friend
 I have just received your letter of the 10th
 and am glad to hear
 that you are well.
 I am well and hope
 this finds you the same.
 I have not much news
 to write at present.

Jimma,
I'm glad you got into the plays now this year. You have a talent for theater; it's shown. I look for in whatever you choose to do.
Make wise decisions and don't rush into anything you're not sure of. It's your life you'll be deciding for.
Love,
Dana

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the general principles of the theory of the structure of the atom. It is shown that the structure of the atom is determined by the laws of quantum mechanics, and that the laws of quantum mechanics are in agreement with the experimental facts.

The second part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the application of the theory of the structure of the atom to the study of the properties of the elements of the periodic system. It is shown that the theory of the structure of the atom is in agreement with the experimental facts.

The third part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the application of the theory of the structure of the atom to the study of the properties of the compounds of the elements. It is shown that the theory of the structure of the atom is in agreement with the experimental facts.
